

CEMAIR SCHEDULE UPDATE

11 March 2018

Johannesburg - CemAir is pleased to confirm that daily flights between Johannesburg and Margate were reinstated as of Wednesday 07 of March 2018.

In addition, daily flights to Sishen and Hoedspruit continue, as do the double daily flights between JHB and Bloemfontein which will shortly see further schedule increases.

From Thursday 15 March 2018 a limited service to Plettenberg Bay from Johannesburg will be reinstated. At this time, we will also make an announcement on the reintroduction of flights between Plettenberg Bay and Cape Town.

We have received a large number of requests to restore our Bloemfontein to George service and we are pleased to announce these flights will recommence from Friday 23 March 2018.

An announcement on the status of our Bloemfontein to Port Elizabeth schedule will follow in due course.

Unfortunately, the Margate to Cape Town service via Plettenberg Bay remains on hold for the time being.

"I wish to thank our customers for their patience and their loyalty", says Miles van der Molen, CEO of CemAir, "I realise that many people were inconvenienced for which I offer a sincere apology. I am pleased to announce that we are restoring service and look forward to closing this chapter and continuing to provide communities with the much-needed world class airline service."

CemAir's safety compliance has been recognised by the International Air Transport Association (IATA), which requires all of its members to pass its comprehensive and globally benchmarked biennial IATA Operational Safety Audit (IOSA). CemAir renewed its IOSA accreditation last September and is on the IOSA register of approved airlines.

The interim schedule of operations is published on the FlyCemAir website www.flycemair.co.za.
